Featured Speaker: Michael McDonough, Ed.D.

Michael has practiced Adlerian counseling and psychotherapy for over 30 years. He holds a license to practice Clinical Psychology in the state of Virginia. Michael is an associate Fellow in the Irish Psychological Society as well as a Chartered Psychologist in Ireland. His Doctorate is from the College of William and Mary in Virginia.

Attracted to Adler's Individual Psychology as an undergraduate student taking a psychology class, Michael discovered the links between Adler and Michael's lifelong love of music. His professional life is infused with his ongoing work as an Adlerian and his continued pursuit of growth in music through performance. His early experiences demonstrated social connectedness and contribution as important elements, so Adler's ideas appear as self evident experiences. The sharing of music with people from other cultures who have different languages further enhances the value of music as a universal form of communication in his experience.

As Michael entered his psychological training at Rutgers and continued in a graduate program at William and Mary, he was exposed to more of Adler's ideas and found a mentor. That led to membership in NASAP in the 1980s and more exposure and training. He expanded his experiences by living, working and teaching in Bermuda from 1998 to 2007. He has also spent time in Ireland providing his professional expertise. He became an Associate Fellow of the Psychological Society of Ireland due to those experiences. He and his family returned to the U.S. in Southwest Virginia in 2011, working at a state child development clinic, as well as providing private practice services to clients in the under-served area of Appalachia.

Adlerian Encounters from Many Sides

This two-day Advanced ISIP Workshop will present Michael's approach which incorporates an overview from a Theatrical Perspective. Incorporating Playbill, background, writers, synopsis, and moving through the experience as Act 1, Act 2, and Resolution. Post-Event discussion will incorporate the elements and experience. Ongoing activities will incorporate demonstrations, small group activity, and reciprocal discussions. This event will be an additional hands-on experience for Advanced attendees.
